

OneRecovery™ and SoberCircle Partner to Create Leading Online Recovery Community

Combined Membership will Connect and Support Each Other under the OneRecovery Brand

DEL MAR, Calif. – [September 30, 2009] – OneRecovery, the first social networking platform connecting peers and professionals, and SoberCircle, the first and largest online social recovery community, are joining together to become the leading online recovery community. The merger of the two sites will create a more powerful and compelling user experience to better support and enhance addiction recovery rates.

“We are pleased to significantly expand the OneRecovery community by working with SoberCircle,” said David Metzler, CEO and Founder of OneRecovery. “This powerful combination will enable us to continue to revolutionize the addiction treatment field through the use of online social media and help the more than the over 20 million people in recovery.”

“The opportunity to access OneRecovery’s Social Solutioning™ platform will give SoberCircle members new tools and features to help them in their recovery.” said Rob Waggener, CEO of Foundations Recovery Network, owners of SoberCircle.com.

The company also announced that Chris Ennis, Co-Founder of SoberCircle, has joined the OneRecovery team. Chris brings over three years of experience in creating large addiction recovery communities using social networking technology.

Members of the two online communities will be combined on the OneRecovery website over the first few weeks of October.
